OPEN GOLF

LEADERS CRACK UP

AMERICANS TIE IN FIRST PLACE

EASTERBROOK'S
ILL-LUCK

London, July 7.

The British open golf championship was another triumph for the United States. The result was a tie between Densmore Shute and Craig Wood, the American Ryder Cup players.

They both returned a final aggregate for the seventy-two holes of 292 and they will play off to decide the winner to-morrow.

But this was not all. The Americans packed four of their Ryder Cup team into the first five positions.

At one time it seemed very likely that the trophy would go to Britain for the first time for ten years. Henry Cotton, Abe Mitchell and S. Easterbrook all had wonderful chances.

COTTON AND MITCHELL.

Cotton and Mitchell disappointed their supporters by a struggling performance in the hectic going on the outward journey and interest in them faded, but there was less excuse for Easterbrook.

He was making a wonderful effort. He needed a 75 to win the championship and as his scores over the first three rounds were 73, 72, and 71, the task did not seem at all formidable.

EASTERBROOK'S ONE LAPSE.

He roused high hopes by completing the first nine holes in 37, turning in a score of 38 on the homeward journey necessary for victory.

Disaster overtook the Kent player at the fourteenth hole. Up to this stage it seemed easy. On the fourteenth, a par five hole, he took seven. He arrived at the eighteenth tee with his score card showing 72 strokes already played. He needed a three on the last hole to tie with Craig Wood and Shute.

His drive was perfect, but he pulled his second shot to the clubhouse steps and thus he did not have a chance although he holed out a four-yrard to give him a par four for the hole and to tie equal second with the holder, Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel.

DIFFICULT CONDITIONS.

It was the most thrilling open championship for many years. In the morning, there was no sign of especially difficult conditions, but in the afternoon a strong wind sprang up and steadily increased, making conditions exceedingly irksome.

In these circumstances, it was the leaders who cracked up. Walter Hageh, for instance, so severe had the course become, blew up completely and took 82 on the final round.

Abe Mitchell and Henry Cotton, both splendidly placed at the end of the third round, took 79.

SHUTE CONSISTENT.

Shute occupied first place with Craig Wood as the result of remarkable consistency. He took 73 strokes on each of the four rounds. His return on 73 on the final round was a brilliant performance. It was equalled only by Archie Compston and beaten only by Olin Dutra and Reginald Whitcombe, both of whom recorded 72's.

Cyril Tolley and Maclean, the Scottish amateur champion, turned in the best scores by amateurs. They tied equal seventh with scores of 298, six strokes behind the leaders, who are to play 36 holes to-morrow to decide the winner.

MAKING TARIFFS
PERMANENT

Dublin, July 7.

A Government Bill has been issued which empowers the Council of Ministers to make permanent certain emergency tariffs imposed in connexion with the economic war with Britain.

The duties which will come under the proposal include those on wearing apparel, up to sixty per cent., coal, five shillings a ton, cement, electrical machinery and articles mainly of steel and iron, up to twenty per cent.—Reuter.

NEW BOOM A DANGER

PRICES OUTSTRIPPING
BUYING POWER

AMERICA GIVEN A WARNING

Washington, July 7.

The rapid rise in commodity price and the stimulus given to industry by the speculative boom is not an unmixed blessing in the United States.

The depression saw heavy wage cuts in all directions and wages do not appear to be increasing to an extent enabling them to keep pace with rising costs.

Some anxiety is being felt in Washington, the attitude of the authorities being expressed by Brig-General Johnson, the Administrator of the National Recovery Act.

WORSE COLLAPSE FEARED.

The recent surge in speculative production in American factories and the rise in prices of commodities are beginning to outstrip the purchasing power of the masses and there is a danger that this development will cause a new and worse collapse.

Brig-General Johnson appealed to industries to hasten in the formulation of codes for increasing wages and reducing hours of work.

LABOUR REPORT.

The danger is also emphasized in the American Federation of Labour Report, which states that

C.E.R. SALE ISSUE

SOVIET ISSUES A MEMORANDUM

THE TERMS OF REDEMPTION

Moscow, July 8.

A memorandum which the Soviet delegation submitted to the Tokyo Conference which is discussing the possibility of the sale of the Chinese Eastern Railway to Manchukuo has been released for publication.

The memorandum concerns the main principles governing the redemption of the C.E.R. by Manchukuo and it was read by M. Furemoff, the head of the delegation, at a meeting of the conference held on July 3.

It estimates that the expenditure on the railway up to 1931 totalled 411,000,000 gold roubles, but it agrees to the redemption at a cost of 250,000,000 gold roubles, half of which the Soviet agrees to receive in goods.

GUARANTEES.

The memorandum stipulates that there must be guarantees in regard to the freedom of transit on the C.E.R. for Soviet freights and passengers on advantageous terms.

The Ussuri Railway must be guaranteed a definite quantity of freights arriving by the C.E.R. Soviet goods must receive most favoured nation treatment and the interests of Soviet citizens and Soviet employees of the railway must be guaranteed.

Since this memorandum was read, the "Manchukuo" delegation has discovered that it "is unable to find in any treaty anything that can be interpreted as confirming Soviet ownership of the railway."—Reuter.

TREASURY BILLS

HIGHER RATES IN LONDON.
YESTERDAY

London, July 7.

The amount applied for to-day's Treasury bills at three months was £83,890,000 and the amount allotted was £42 millions. The average rate per cent was 10/4.85d as compared with 8/9.55d last week.—British Wireless.

the factory output jumped by thirty-five per cent.

The Labour Federation Report infers that much of the present feverish activity in purely speculative and speculative industry is due to the fact that the factory output jumped by thirty-five per cent.

LATEST MOVE BY ROOSEVELT

CAMPAIGN FOR HIGHER
PRICE LEVELS

DETAILED POLICY

LONDON, JULY 8.

IT IS LEARNED THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT LAST NIGHT PREPARED A MESSAGE TO THE U. S. DELEGATION AT THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE OUTLINING IN GREATER DETAIL HIS CAMPAIGN FOR WORLD PRICE RECOVERY AS THE IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVE OF THE CONFERENCE.

The consideration of the items which can usefully be discussed having regard to the gold bloc's objections to anything relating to monetary questions, occupied much time in London yesterday.

The gold bloc displayed soreness at an apparent attempt to narrow down this line of deliberation. Mr. Neville Chamberlain proposed that the original agenda be adhered to, adding that reservations could be made if unanimous conclusions were not possible. M. Bonnet, as the champion of the gold countries, opposed the proposal, but it was ultimately adopted.

The decision of the Bureau of the World Conference to proceed with its work to the utmost extent possible, necessitates a complete review of the conference's activities.

The situation will be clarified when on Monday the Bureau has before it the reports from the various sub-committees, several of which were in session during to-day.

Meanwhile, the position was considered at private meetings of the various delegations and there were consultations between the delegates at which the major issues before the conference were discussed.

CABINET MEETING.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who took a prominent part in these consultations, presided over a meeting of the British Cabinet held at the House of Commons this evening.

At a meeting of the Monetary Sub-Committee, which has before it an agenda including credit policy, price levels, the limitation of currency fluctuations, exchange controls, the problems of indebtedness and the resumption of lending, Mr. Neville Chamberlain emphasized the difficulty of isolating that particular item for discussion without raising the others and he proposed all should be subject to further discussion.

FIVE BITTEN BY RABID DOG

ALARMING AFFAIR
IN HUNGHOM

An alarming situation in regard to the question of dogs and hydrophobia was disclosed to-day, when it was known that a dog which bit five persons in Hunghom last week has since been definitely found to have been suffering from rabies.

Four Chinese children and an adult were bitten on and after the other along the Tokowwan Road by a chow, which pursued a mad career for some time before it was caught and killed with a bamboo pole.

The carcass has since been examined by a veterinary surgeon and distinct traces of hydrophobia were discovered.

The discovery has put the case of the five persons bitten in a very grave light. Precautionary treatment pursued in the first instance is now being conducted along more

The Roumanian delegate proposed that the work of the Committee should cease on questions other than indebtedness.

This question might be profitably discussed while on the other side of the conference work, the questions of the conditions of production and marketing and the organisation of labour might be proceeded with.

Senator Couzens (United States) while recognising that there were differences of opinion as to how best to accomplish the primary purpose of the conference to relieve unemployment, drew attention to President Roosevelt's endeavours to raise the price levels and hoped that other countries each in its own way would assist.

He saw no reason for not continuing with the work before committee.

PROPOSAL CARRIED.

Sir Henry Strakosch (India) submitted that the exclusion of monetary questions from consideration would conflict with the bureau conclusion to proceed.

The Italian Swiss and Austrian delegates supported the Roumanian proposal. On a vote being taken the British proposal was approved by 25 to 15 with one absent. There were several absences.

The Chairman, Signor Junk, said he would report the result of the debate to the Bureau.

OTHER OPPOSITION.

At a joint meeting of the various sub-committees of the Economic Commission to consider future work, a proposal that the sub-committees on the co-ordination of production and marketing of sugar, timber, wine, coal, tea, tin, copper and silver should continue was not opposed. The silver question is also being dealt with by a sub-committee of the Financial Commission.—Reuter and British Wireless.

USSURI RIVER INCIDENT

RUSSIANS STOP
STEAMER

CARGO AND GUARDS
SEIZED

Harbin, July 8.

Great excitement has been caused here by news of the detention by U.S.S.R. frontier guards of a Manchukuo steamer.

According to the reports which have been received in official circles, the steamer Tungshang was stopped by the frontier guards, inside Manchukuo waters, on the Ussuri River, near Hulin.

The ship was detained, it is alleged, while the guards carried out an intensive search of the vessel, finally confiscating the cargo, and capturing ten Russian emigre steamer guards.

STRONG STEPS.

The invaders then released the Tungshang and returned to Soviet territory.

Officials of the Manchukuo Government are of opinion that when the report is confirmed, the Manchukuo Government will take the strongest measures to recover the men and the cargo.—Reuter.

THE FUTURE OF RUBBER

EARL PLYMOUTH'S OPTIMISM

London, July 7.

Rubber is not doomed to disintegrate into an industry of small holdings, declared the Earl of Plymouth, the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, in the course of a speech at a luncheon of the Incorporated Society of the Planters of Malaya.

Lord Plymouth.

He added that there are small but definite signs of improvement in the rubber industry and said that there could be no doubt that the world will require large quantities of rubber in the future and that new uses would constantly be found.—Reuter.

U.S. FINANCIER KIDNAPPED

Jacob Factor Seized
in the Open

Chicago, July 7.

Jacob Factor, the financier, has been kidnapped.

Factor, who is sometimes known as "John Jake the Barber," rose from being a West-side barber to millionaire stockbroker. He "wanted" in England for alleged share-pushing frauds on a large scale.

Jacob Factor was leaving a room house near Evanston, a suburb of Chicago, with a companion, when he was pounced upon and taken to a passing car which disappeared.

Few of the facts are known to police, but it is reported that Factor's son, Jerome, who was kidnapped himself (not long ago) driving his father in the car, was bundled out by two men who drove off at a great rate. They carried off a briefcase containing Factor's money and securities. The whereabouts of the kidnappers is unknown.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Summery Fabrics for the Wedding March

The wedding march will bring into view summery looking bridal attire, for the sheerest chiffons, mousseline de soie, a tarched organdies and net will adorn the bridal party. This summer, the sensible bride will select a gown that will make the perfect evening dress after the wedding. Her attendants will wear little party dresses, perhaps covered by little capes or jackets for the occasion.

One sleeveless satin bri dal gown (centre) has a built-up basque waistline, with an insert of shirred chiffon just above the waistline. Over this a short cape of chiffon, edged with plaited ruffle covers a low-cut back and the shoulders, making it suitable for the wedding. The one back panel fashions the train. It can be cut floor length afterwards, to make the gown a dance frock. A bridled tulle headband holds the tulle veil.

The maid of honour (left) wears a charming yellow mousseline de soie dress, with detachable puffed-sleeve jacket and an interesting skirt, with flounces posed in graduated line. The bridesmaid (right) wears a pale blue printed mousseline de soie dress with double-ruffled jacket and sash of blue moire taffeta. The piquant mousseline de soie hats match the tone of the dresses.

Nursing Bottles Must Be Kept Clean

By Olive Roberts Barton

I wonder how much human life has been lost due to dirty nursing bottles.

When I say dirty, I mean it, not in its old sense, sour, unwashed bottles, cleaned with a few shot shaken around to get off the scum. Most mothers to-day know better than to continue that custom.

I mean all bottles that have not been boiled; a nursing bottle may look as bright and innocent as the morning dew, and yet be as dangerous as a plague.

There is nothing faddy or overdrawn about all the talk of the baby's food containers. Nursing bottles must be boiled every time they are used, and the nipples must be boiled each time they are used also.

Never use a bottle with square shoulders or a square bottom. It must be so shaped that when a bottle-brush is inserted every bit of surface is reached by the bristles. A brush cannot reach into the recesses of sharp angles. Most nursing bottles sold for the purpose are correctly shaped inside.

Keep Bottles Chilled

These are cheap, so are the wire brushes; and so are nipples and funnels, measuring-glasses, bowls and spoons used for mixing the formula.

The bottles should be kept, not on the ice, but near it so as to be thoroughly chilled, and removed only when feeding time comes. They should be heated when needed by standing in a pan of cool water and brought quickly to the desired warmth.

Never pour out the milk into a pan to heat it!

Once a day, preferably in the morning, gather up all the bottles and nipples. Keep a big kettle handy just for the baby's use.

Take some good pure soap and warm water and scrub the bottles inside and out, nipples too, with the bottle brush. Also scrub out all the utensils connected with the baby's feeding.

All Into the Kettle

Rinse out all the soap-suds ever and over again. (Some use baking-soda instead of soap.) Fill everything with clear, clean water and put them all into the big kettle, the brush, the spoons, the measuring cup, nipples, funnel and jars. Fill the kettle with clear, clean water, be sure there is no soap of any kind in it (it should be given special attention) and set on the fire.

Boil hard for twenty minutes after actual boiling has started. Wire racks for holding bottles upright are convenient but the bottles must be full of water to the brim.

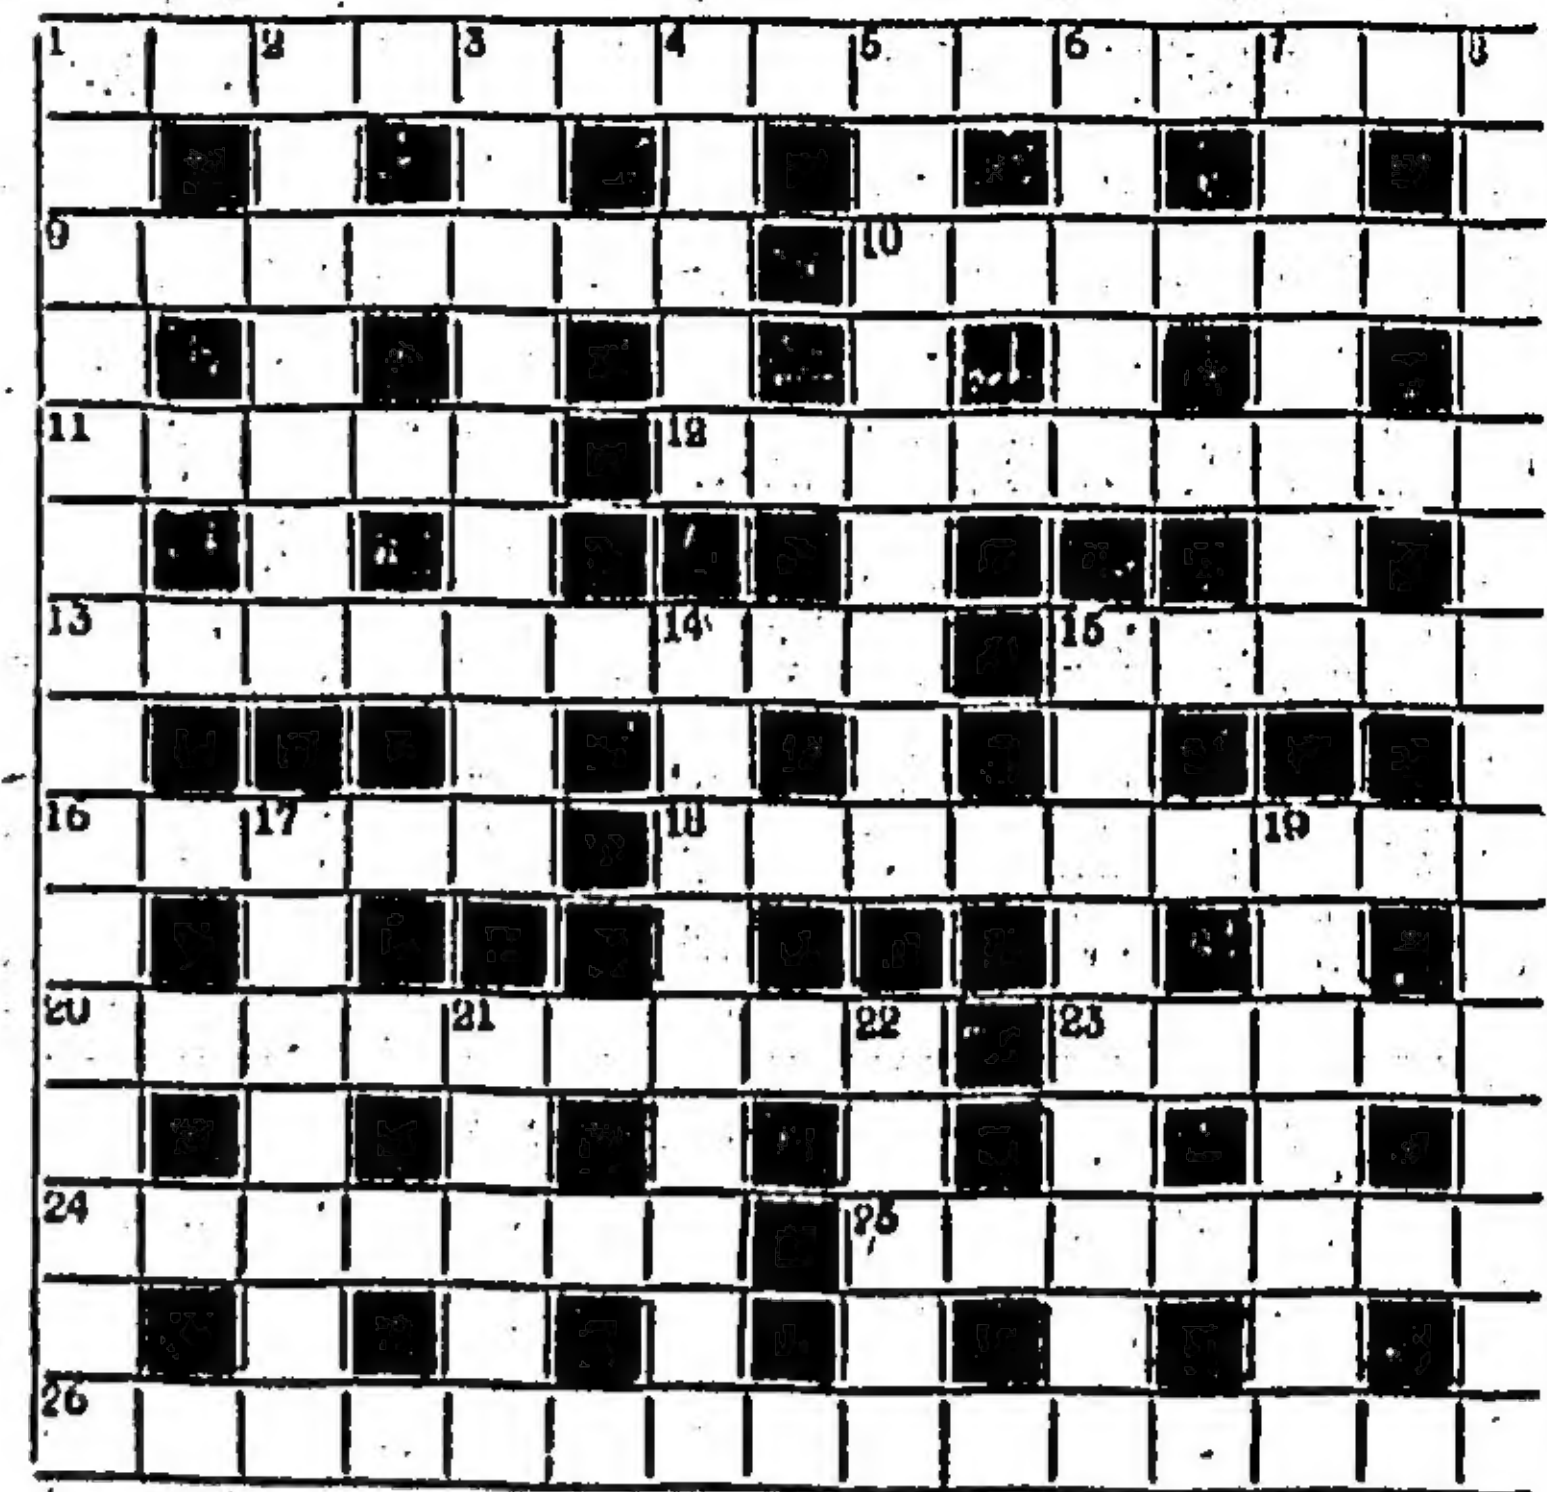

One or two of the bottles can be set aside for baby's drinking water if the rack is used and nothing comes in contact with the contents.

Boil the Nipple Jars

The formula can then be made and the other bottles emptied and filled for the day's use. Stopper them either with clean sterilized cotton, or the patent rubber-stoppers now sold. The latter also must be boiled if used.

Jars containing the nipples should be boiled also. Keep a special jar for all used nipples and stoppers to be thrown into after being rinsed thoroughly. This jar should be covered. No water or solution need be kept in it. Another jar of boric solution (one level teaspoon boric acid to one pint boiling water) is excellent to keep the boiled nipples fresh and clean until needed. A fresh solution should be made every other day. Never throw a used nipple back into this jar. Nothing must touch them.

DARLING FOOL

by MABEL
McCLINTON

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONICA O'DARE, 20, and beautiful, is in love with DAN CADDIGAN, heir to a local fortune. They are secretly engaged. BILL O'DARE worries his mother by planning to marry ANGIE GILLEN, who has not yet got her divorce.

SANDRA LAWRENCE, who pretends to be Monica's friend, is trying to win Dan from her. Sandra declares two servants and they try to kidnap her. She escapes. Dan's mother and sister plan a trip to a Wyoming dude ranch. Sandra is to accompany them. Dan does not want to go but his parents insist.

KAY, Monica's younger sister, tells her that MISS COREY, an old friend who has inherited $50,000, is going abroad and wants Monica to accompany her.

CHAPTER XXVII

Days passed and still no letter came from Dan. Monica's eyes ached with looking for it. She never heard the postman's step on the walk of mornings but her heart beat faster, her palms grew wet.

No letter! What could Dan be thinking of? A week. Two weeks. Kay left her temporary work at the library and started to help Miss Anstice who planned to take her leave of absence beginning October first. Monica's indifference to the dazzling plan which included herself had at first bewildered, then frightened Mrs. O'Dare. Imagine being asked, at 20, to go abroad! Imagine being blase about it! No, Monica's mother couldn't understand it. Later when comprehension of her daughter's motives dawned upon her the poor lady was genuinely worried. The child must care more deeply for Dan than anyone thought.

Monica had temporized. "But I can't leave Mother just now," she had told Miss Anstice. "It's terribly sweet of you—I don't know why you thought of me—but I'm needed here." That much certainly was true. Bill might go off any day now and be married. They hesitated to ask him about his plans. He was moody, taciturn. After that brief formal call of Angie's they had not seen her. But they imagined his affairs were marching forward with due precision.

"Go and enjoy yourself," Mrs. O'Dare would urge. "We can manage. Kay will be earning almost as much as you. I want you to have the chance."

But Monica was listless, openly indifferent to the golden opportunity. Once it would have tempted her beyond belief. But these days she moved, ate, walked like a person under a spell. Her eyes had a sleepwalker's heavy glaze. She scarcely knew what food she touched or who spoke to her.

It was Charles Eustace, curious enough, who roused her from this apathy. He met her one day on the street, walked home with her through a brilliant blaze of September sunlight.

"Kay's been telling me you may go to Paris," he began smiling. Monica stirred herself to smile back at him, thinking impersonally how big and splendid and attractive he was.

"Kay's spinning day dreams," she told him. "I'm not going."

"Why?" His voice held a note of banter.

"Oh!" She lifted her hand and let it fall in a gesture of weariness. "Lots of reasons."

"Monica!" His voice sounded almost stern now. "Your mother wants you to go. Do you know that?"

She stared at him. "Mother's unselfish. But I really ought to stay at home," she added bitterly. "I suppose you've heard of money troubles. Well, we have them. That's part of it."

"Child alive! Do you suppose I don't know that? Monica, I've been wanting to talk to you about this. Please let me. I've got so much, a great deal more than I need. "If you'd only—"

She interrupted him. "You mean let you give us money? You know I can't do that." Suddenly she felt the keenest anger toward him. Her eyes flashed.

"I know you mean to be kind—I'm sure you do," she said coldly. "But after all, we can't take charity. No, we'll muddle along the best we can."

He was offended, she could see that. Perversely she was glad. How dared anyone offer her charity? She wouldn't have it. All the pent-up resentment and bitterness of the past weeks welled up in her.

"It's bad enough to be poor," she said, her breast heaving, her voice thickening "without having people pitying you—"

"Monnie!" The sound of her name, spoken so, brought her up sharp. "You know you're talking nonsense. No one pities you. It's envy most of us feel!"

"Envy?" She was surprised out of her mood, tears trembling on the ends of her lashes.

"I said just that and I mean it," announced the tall man striding beside her. "A home like yours—a mother like that—the simple goodness of the life you're led. I tell you it did something to me when first I encountered it."

Monnie was abashed. There was no mistaking the sincerity of his tone.

"When I came here last year," Charles Eustace said quietly, meditatively, almost as though speaking to himself, "I was pretty much all in. Didn't have much faith in anything. I was out of tune with this country, I'd been away so long. Then Uncle asked me if I'd like to vegetate in his old house. I was in no state to decide things for myself. Kong packed me up and brought me here. I hadn't been here long when I met you—all of you. I thought yours was the happiest, the nicest sort of family I'd ever met."

"I don't remember my mother. She died when I was four. My father was a busy doctor in New York. I seldom saw him and was sent away to prep school when I was very young. The only home life I'd ever known I'd read about and I didn't really believe in it. Then I discovered your house where everybody seemed genuinely fond of everybody else and tried to help. I hope," finished Charles stiffly, "that I don't sound like a sentimental fool but honestly it did something to me—gave me something I needed. Faith—something like that—I don't know. And you talk about being pitied!"

Monnie, ashamed but stubborn, said, "Then you pretend to think money doesn't count? That's because you've always had so much of it. You've never had to worry about where the interest money was coming from or cry yourself to sleep because the girls at school made fun of your old coat."

His voice was gentle now. "I do know it's important. But it's not all. It smooths life, makes it easy and comfortable. But it doesn't buy affection or the kind of happiness that makes life worth living. It doesn't make you glad to wake up in the morning. Some day, perhaps, I'll tell you what it means to realize you're glad you're alive after months of staring at a black wall."

"I know what it means to be unhappy," Monnie muttered. "Don't think I haven't—"

"But not black unhappiness, child," he insisted, eager to make his point. "Not the feeling that nothing matters—nothing on earth is worth while—"

"N-no," she admitted it, seeking for words to paint her own feelings. "But being afraid you're never—never going to get what you want out of life. That it's going to pass you by. That by the time you're 30 you'll be dragged out, old—missing—missing—" She halted, the word trembling on her lips. Charles supplied it.

"Missing love?"

"Yes," Monnie looked at him defiantly. Let him know her secret. He'd guessed it already, anyhow.

"Yes. Missing the one person you want. Losing out because of, oh—little things. The right dresses, the right sort of place to entertain, the little things that make a girl pretty and wanted."

"Monnie!" Charles Eustace's tone was almost amused. "That's not love—what you're talking about."

"Oh, but it is, it is! You don't understand!"

"That," explained Charles gently, "is kid stuff. Popularity—going to dances—that sort of thing. Do you suppose," he inquired, "I'd pass up a girl I really cared about just because she didn't have the right sort of frock? As if that mattered!"

"Not to you, perhaps," said Monnie subornly. "Not in theory, either, to any man. But it's what attracts." She tried to strike a lighter note. No good bringing her own problems into this. "Look at Kay," she said impersonally.

"She's beautiful and clever and good. She ought to be having splendid times, enjoying herself. What happens? Night after night she sits at home with the rest of us. She hasn't money to entertain or dress properly and she lives on the wrong side of town. It's not fair!"

"Kay's a darling," said the man and again Monnie felt the sudden irrational little twinge of pain. Abruptly he turned back to their original argument. "Kay wants you to go abroad with Miss Anstice," he said. "She's told me a dozen times."

They had reached the front gate now. Monnie opened it, leaning on it, facing the tall young man in his perfectly cut, careless tweed clothes.

"You're sweet to be so interested," she said. "I wish I could."

She was struck, as she spoke, with the curious look he gave her, a blend of kindness and exasperation—and something else. She could not define it. Something hung between the pair for an instant—some unspoken thought—some tension of feeling. Monnie shook herself, breaking away from the spell of those brilliant, almost mocking, dark eyes.

"I must go in," she said in confusion. "I'm late as it is."

Charles lifted his hat and as he turned to go Monnie forgot him, forgot everything. Mark O'Dare, freckle faced, tousie-headed, dashed down the path, bound on some concern of his own.

"Mail for you, Monnie," he yelled.

Her heart began to thud. The long awaited letter had come at last!

ARMY TRAGEDY

BRITISH OFFICER SHOT DEAD.

Shanghai, July 7. Captain George Ernest Page, aged 46, of the Royal Engineers, in charge of the Army Post Office at Area Headquarters here, was killed by the accidental discharge of a rifle this afternoon.

The circumstances were most unusual. Captain Page was at his desk, working in the Post Office, when a rifle in the hands of a private soldier in the next room was accidentally fired.

The bullet pierced the wall, flattened, and struck Captain Page in the thigh, inflicting a terrible wound. He was rushed to hospital but he died there half an hour later, in spite of desperate efforts to save him.

The private who was handling the weapon at the time it went off is at present in custody, pending an official investigation.

Captain Page only arrived in Shanghai in January of this year. He is survived by his young widow and one little daughter.—Reuter.

AN EMPIRE CURRENCY

SUGGESTION FROM BRITISH CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

London, July 7. An Imperial currency, valid throughout the British Empire, was advocated by the Congress of the Federated Chambers of Commerce of the Empire in London to-day.

Sir Basil Blackett stated: "We need money which will be stable from year to year, so that contracts entered upon now will be much the same in terms of money years hence."

Sir James Martin (London) said it was high time Englishmen turned their minds from internationalism to their Empire, which could manage for itself.

Sir Geoffrey Clark (Chairman of the Council of the London Chamber of Commerce) asserted that the entire monetary report was a condemnation of the gold standard, which had broken down hopelessly.

The report suggested that if an international agreement towards a reformed gold standard was not reached, Empire countries should develop their currencies and form a Sterling Union.—Reuter.

MATERN SAFE

AMERICAN FLYER IN SIBERIA

Moscow, July 7. Lieut. James Mattern, the young American aviator who was believed to have lost his life when attempting to fly across the North Pacific Ocean, has been found. He is safe at Anadichukotka, a small Siberian town.

How he got there reports do not disclose.—Reuter.

Mattern left Khabarovsk on June 15 with Nome, Alaska, his destination. After a succession of accidents, which spoiled his hopes of setting up a new record for a round-the-world flight, he took off from the Siberian coast in the early morning—and vanished.

For three days nothing was heard of him. The Washington authorities broadcasted an appeal to shipping along the Alaskan coast and in the vicinity of the Aleutian Islands, to keep a watch for the flyer. Naval vessels were ordered to hunt for him and air patrols went out from Nome and other Alaskan flying bases. There was no sign of his plane. Hope gradually faded.

Then, yesterday, almost a month after his disappearance, a telegraph instrument ticked out the brief assurance of his safety.

Mattern left Newfoundland on June 3, crossed the Atlantic to Oslo, and headed across Russia. He had a forced landing at Novosibirsk on June 8 but was off again on June 9, still with a chance of breaking the record. It was at Khabarovsk that his luck was at its lowest. He tried to continue on June 13, but storms forced him back. When he finally flew away, into the fog, on June 15, it was a last desperate effort to make up time.

4.—Struck off Strength.
Dismissed by the Efficiency Board. No. 1822 Pte. H. P. Lim, No. 14 Ptn., as from 7.6.33.

CLAIM SUCCEEDS.

EUROPEAN LITIGANTS IN SUPREME COURT

Judgment was given against David North, of David's Cafeteria, Hankow Road, in two actions before the Peking Judge, Mr. R. E. Lindell, at the Supreme Court yesterday.

Harold Guard, of 2, Garden Road, a former partner in the International Advertising Service, claimed to recover $300 lent to North in July last year, when they were working together.

A counter claim for $150 for wages was filed.

Mr. P. E. Sin represented Guard, and Mr. O.E.C. Marton, of Messrs. Deacons, appeared for North.

At the previous hearing of the case it was stated that the $300 was a personal loan by plaintiff and was made from his private account.

In reply to this defendant contended that he worked for six weeks as an assistant manager of the firm at a specified salary of $300 a month. He only received about $75 during that period and this was to cover his expenses. The $300 was due to him in salary for one month and he claimed a further $150.

North's cross-examination was continued yesterday. Mr. Sin submitted that the counter-claim was really against the firm and not against his client, who was a partner. If the loan had been made as an advance, the other partner of the firm would have been consulted about it, and there was definite evidence that North was not engaged as assistant manager.

Mr. Marton said it was reasonable to assume that his client was taken on at $300 a month.

"I don't think it too much to say that this action savours of blackmail," he added.

Mr. Sin: I must object to this. It is most improper.

Mr. Marton: The reason I say this is that Mr. Guard has just discovered that Mr. North is getting on his feet again, and he is putting up this preposterous claim.

His Lordship: He admitted that he knew that. Is it not natural? It is no use suing a man of straw.

Mr. Marton withdrew the remark.

His Lordship asked why, if Mr. North's story of the advancement of the $300 were true, the Company, which was still in existence, had not sued for its return.

Mr. Marton: I cannot give any reason.

His Lordship: It will count against you.

Judgment was given for Guard in both claim and counter-claim, with costs, his Lordship stating that he did not believe that North was offered the job of assistant manager at $300 a month. The question of commission had not been fully gone into and any adjustment due to North would be enquired into and made by the Registrar.

"SYNCHRO-MESH HAS BANISHED ALL TERRORS"

"The Synchro-Mesh gear is a great boon and absolutely fool-proof," writes a married man. "We found the ease of changing gear most useful and delightful. To change gear suddenly used to be a nightmare to my wife, now she delights to take the car anywhere at any time; the Synchro-Mesh gear has banished all terrors for her."

The magic Synchro-Mesh gear box is a joy to lady drivers, because it makes gear changing so simple. Though running costs are low, the Cadet engine gives vivid acceleration and ample power for every need. Steering is positive but finger-light and braking smooth but decisive. The roomy coachwork gives you every luxury. And as for style the Cadet expresses the last word in good taste. Prices from £295. Let us give you a trial run.

JAPAN & C.E.R.

The astonishing point reached in the C.E.R. sale negotiations, the challenge to Soviet claims of ownership in the railway, suggests that Japan has ceased to treat the discussions seriously. The submission that no passage can be found in any treaty that can be interpreted as confirming Soviet ownership is patently absurd. It would be a joking matter, but for the serious implications. Japan cannot ride roughshod over ordinary commonsense in that manner. Of the Soviet Government's reply there can be no doubt. Public opinion has been running high for some considerable time as a result of a succession of incidents which have been regarded rightly or wrongly, as attempts to bully and coerce. And the reactions to the present development will bear watching. Moscow had said pretty plainly that the progress of the C. E. R. negotiations would serve as a gauge of the peaceful intentions of Japan. The proposal to sell the railway has demonstrated the desire of Russia to eliminate a source of repeated friction which, if not checked cannot but have unhappy consequences for peaceful relations between the U.S.S.R. and Japan in the Far East. These relations are delicately balanced as things stand. The Kamchatka affair, in which the Japanese allege the shooting of three Japanese fishermen, has yet to be settled and the outlook is none too promising. The Russian Government, having protested against the landing of bluejackets from a Japanese warship, now allege that the coastguard station at Cape Kronotsky was broken into and virtually wrecked and that nothing has been seen of the coastguards, who seem to have disappeared into thin air. Cape Kronotsky is sixty kilometres from Cape Olga, where the shooting of the fishermen is alleged to have taken place. The suggestion seems to be that the Cape Kronotsky station was wrecked by the Japanese, and although no definite charge to this effect has been laid officially, tension is not thereby lessened. All the elements for a first-class conflagration lie in the present situation in the Far East, and some very earnest thinking must be going on in Moscow.

NOTES OF THE DAY

The division of the World Economic Conference into groups, unfortunate though it may be, would appear to be the logical outcome of the impasse reached. The gold and the non-gold countries cannot get along together. As groups, they may achieve happier results by working along their independent lines. Whether this is desirable is a moot point. Such a development might easily tend to intensify rivalries. But then again, bloc policies might be more easily harmonised at a propitious moment. The main thing is for Britain to make up her mind. She has rejected the overtures of the gold standard countries, despite Bank of England recommendation, but has not yet thrown in her lot with the United States.

THE GAMBLING FEVER

The American policy is fairly well understood by now. It means a complete breakdown from orthodox finance. But its objects are being achieved, which, after all, is the main thing. The fever of gambling which is spreading through the country may not be altogether a good sign. In fact, if some control is not exercised, the entire programme may be jeopardised. But it would be easy to make too much of the spasms. Not all the money pouring into the Stock Exchange is borrowed money. A good deal of it signifies the end of panic hoarding. Money which has been lying idle is flowing into circulation again.

BUS FARES

Complaints about the local bus services since the change of regime seem never-ending. The latest brought to our notice, however, is out of the ordinary run. As far as we know, it applies only to Kowloon, and it concerns the fares to Servicemen in uniform. We thought it well known that Servicemen in uniform are entitled to journey at half the ordinary rates when travelling first-class. A statement to this effect will be found in most of the buses. Nevertheless, there are certain conductors who either do not know this or who are staging a ramp. In certain instances, buses have been held up at a stopping-place for minutes while a conductor has insisted that Servicemen passengers pay the full fare or leave the vehicle. Usually they have paid rather than cause inconvenience to other travellers. There is not the slightest reason why they should.

AN AIR MYSTERY

The failure of air experts in Belgium and Britain to discover the cause of the "City of Liverpool" fire disaster vividly recalls the rumours of arson current at the time of the tragic affair. As Lord Londonderry puts it, however, further enquiries are not likely to lead to any fruitful results and the mystery must remain a mystery. The satisfactory feature is the fairly clear proof that, whatever the true cause, it had nothing to do with any defect in the machine or its engines. The Imperial Airways has lost none of its high reputation as a result of the mishap.

SIR ERIC DRUMMOND

In appointing Sir Eric Drummond to the Embassy in Rome, Britain has, at the same time, paid him a compliment and acted wisely in the interests of diplomatic relations between Italy and England. That those relations should remain on the friendliest footing is obviously desirable, and no man is better fitted for the task than Sir Eric. It has to be frankly admitted, however, that Geneva is much the poorer by Sir Eric Drummond's resignation. Secretary-General since the inception of the League in 1919, he accomplished a rare amount of splendid work, the effect of which will probably be felt more in the future than in the immediate present. His integrity, tact, and ability quickly to grasp the intricacies of the problems confronting the League, made his services indispensable during the early days of the international institution.

CRAWFORD'S TRIUMPH

J. B. Crawford's victory in the singles championship at Wimbledon is the crowning triumph of a meteoric career. Not only is the achievement one for personal satisfaction, but it throws a reflected glory on the prestige of British sport. Gerald Patterson, himself an Australian, was the last Briton to win the Wimbledon crown in 1922. Since then it has been shared by Americans and Frenchmen. Crawford's brilliant win over Ellsworth Vines gives him greater satisfaction as there was not a single critic in England prepared to support his claims. We may now regard his inconsistency and lack of that precious quality, "the will to win."

LET US BE FAIR TO FRANCE

By E. L. ALLEN

Here is a story which helps one to be fair to France. It shows what the real France, the France of the villages and the ordinary man, is thinking. True, the story is two years old, but I imagine it is true to the situation to-day. The names have passed from my memory, but the facts remain as vividly there as when the story was first told me by one of the chief actors in it.

There is a corner of France where three frontiers meet and it is but a step one way into Germany and another into Switzerland. There is a group of Protestant villages in it which twice within living memory have suffered from a German invasion; there are old folk in them who have twice been driven from their homes. If any people in Europe know what war means, they do.

Years ago, a girl from one of these villages went across the Atlantic, to take a post as governess with a wealthy American family. She remained unmarried and, thanks to the thrifty habits of her nation, she saved enough to buy a cottage in her native place and retire there to end her days. She was over seventy when news reached her of the forthcoming Disarmament Conference. What could she do to help? She wrote at once to her American friends, placing her house at their disposal for a campaign in the district on behalf of peace. They felt that such a neighbourhood would be a tough nut to crack, but it would be well worth trying.

IN THE CAUSE OF PEACE.

So three persons converged on that spot. One was an American Quaker lady, the second was an Englishwoman, a devoted worker in a number of good causes, and the third—well, the third was one whose life-story would make a book. She was a Belgian by nationality. Her experiences as a worker made of her an advocate of women's trade unions, and she was the secretary of one of these at the outbreak of war. An ardent patriot, she was caught assisting Belgians of military age to escape across the frontier, and was condemned to be shot. But she was well-known to the German Social Democrats, and they appealed to the Kaiser, who commuted the sentence to one of imprisonment. From her war-time imprisonment she came back to take up with enthusiasm the cause of peace. There was also a fourth member of the team, the editor of a Paris daily, who gave invaluable assistance part of the time.

On arrival, they called first on the local notables, with the object of allaying any suspicions. But the war-record of the Belgian trade unionist was sufficient to open all doors for them. Their object was to secure signatures for the women's disarmament petition, and they went to work quietly about this for several weeks, holding meetings for the women and visiting from house to house. They expected opposition, but found scarcely any, none whatever from those who remembered 1870 as well as 1914.

THE ONE EXCEPTION.

But now they had come to the real difficulty. What success would they have with the men? The Paris editor was appealed to and he came down. His name was an attraction in itself; the men gathered in the house and outside it one evening to listen to him. He closed by telling them that at 8 o'clock next morning copies of the petition would be there for those who wished to sign them. That was all.

Next morning the women workers got the room ready, put out a table with pen and ink and petition-forms on it, and waited for the time. They were hopeful that a dozen or twenty men would come forward. When they opened the door, as many as that were standing outside already, each eager to be the first to set down his name! All day they came, leaving their work as it permitted, and some of them walking several miles. "We know what this means," was the remark of man after man, "we have seen war twice and we do not want to see it again!"

When evening came on, the workers looked down the lists of names which had accumulated on their table, all with so little pressure on their part. They counted them up, and every adult male in those villages had set down his name—with one exception. That, I regret to say, was the Protestant minister!

21 YEARS AGO

Extracts From the "Telegraph" Files

The following extracts are from the Hongkong Telegraph for the week ended July 6, 1912.

The rate of the dollar on demand was 2/-1/8.

Police prevented a 12-year-old boy from selling the Telegraph in the streets as he had no licence. At the Police Court the boy was discharged, when the manager of the Telegraph stated that he had never heard of the necessity of newspaper boys possessing a hawkers licence.

Appreciation of the innovation of the Hongkong Tramway Co. in running double-deck trams was expressed and the appeal made that the service would be extended to include the Happy Valley.

Sir Henry May, accompanied by Lady May, arrived in the Colony to take over the Governorship. An attempt to assassinate Sir Henry was made by a Chinese near the Post Office. He fired a bullet point blank at Sir Henry, but it missed and bedded itself in the woodwork of the chair in which the Governor was travelling. The would-be assassin was nearly lynched by the crowd.

A gratifying increase in the membership of the Hongkong Volunteers was recorded during the week.

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

We notice that a local owner-driver had the misfortune to break his axle. Nearly as tragic as the bag-snatcher who had his escape cut off.

The question of receiving messages from the dead is again being discussed in London. We can testify that a message was once received from the Mid-Levels Residents' Association.

The local cricketer who "executed a bad stroke on the shirt side" did manage to sneak a single.

A woman in New York took four shots at her husband without effect. Guess she now says that she missed him terribly.

We overheard a certain local resident express the opinion that "honorary secretarial work is all very well, but one gets no thanks for one's pains." May we suggest, liniment!

The funny names on matchboxes at Castle Peak are possibly due to the funny people who use them, especially at night without the permission of the owner.

One thing about Hongkong dentists. They rarely stop in the same place twice!

Shek-O Club has the longest bar in the Colony—from civilisation.

One thing about our new Bishop. He's got plenty of "surprise energy."

When one thinks of our silver dollars, the saying that wealth is a burden is easily explained.

Some lads stole an airplane in England. Skylarking, of course.

About the most shaky business we know in Hongkong at the moment is throwing dice!

Omnibus. Ominous!

A new cinema studio in Shanghai is being besieged by film-struck Chinese girls. Taking the Wong turning? Why not, if Anna May?

That dear old lady who put the thermometer on ice to keep the temperature of the room down, doubtless meant well.

"There comes a time in every man's life when he feels he must break the bonds of convention," says a writer. We must confess that in the last few days, we have been wearing an open-neck shirt to the office.

A superstition. If, at 11.5 p.m. on a moonlight night you lie on the bench at Castle Peak, fifty inches from the water's edge, and cover your ears with your hands, somebody in a nearby shed has just dragged out a ukelele.

Mr. Lanepart is now threatening to start a branch of the Nudist Society in Shanghai. Here, bare and everywhere.

If the police are really desirous of discouraging pickpockets, why don't they send them round to the local newspaper offices.

A Peak lady complains that she can't sleep after daybreak unless she covers her eyes with a towel. Another thing to do would be to get up and work. Just an old spinach custom.

What's the matter with Hitler as a dictator? As long as he doesn't come dictating to us.

Well, Wimble-done, Crawford!

Flannel suits with a green tinge are being worn this summer, according to a fashion note. Edward Kelly says he found that out the other day, after leaning against a newly painted lamp-post waiting for a bus.

"Inflation! War debts! Prohibition! We never talk about my problems!"

WHEN BUSINESS BACKS MORALS

SILK MERCHANT AGHAST AT NUDIST CULT

Is there not a singularly appropriate touch, almost as of poetic justice in the spectacle of a leading silk merchant, valiantly championing the cause of morality and decorum against a movement which aims at totally discarding all apparel, whether silk, satin, muslin or rags, Chinese or foreign, made to measure or off the hook?

Such is the stand of Mr. Wang Yen-sung, member of the standing committee of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, general manager of the Shanghai Silk Bank and the Dah Sing Silk Store in Hankow Road. When rumour reached this city that the nudist cult was to be imported here from Hongkong by an enterprising foreigner, Mr. Wang at once penned to the Municipality of Greater Shanghai a weighty indictment calling for a ban on the movement.

PARADISE-BY-THE-WHANGPOO.

Films in which the producers have unduly economized on wardrobe expenses are prohibited by the guardians of Shanghai ethics, he points out. How much more detrimental to permit the polio population of Paradise-by-the-Whangpoo to "woo the cooling breeze in the garb of the Garden of Eden! A nudist society he stigmatizes as particularly unsuitable for Shanghai—a view with which many sufferers from mosquitoes, dust, and sudden thunder-bursts will be inclined to agree.

Far be it from us to impute ulterior motives to an "improbable opponent of decadent dilettantism." It is bad for trade, may be allied in all sincerity with that dread verdict "It's not done, sir," and Lancashire textile exporters will associate themselves wholeheartedly with Shanghai's protest against the over-zealous casting of clouds, even though May be indisputably out.

LONDON TRAFFIC CHANGE

TRANSPORT NOW UNDER ONE CONTROL

London, July 1. The whole of London's passenger transport passed under the control of the newly created London Passenger Transport Board at midnight last night.

This was effected by an Act just come into operation which transfers control from a hundred public enterprises operating separately all coaches, omnibuses, trams and trains within a radius of 30 miles of London.

The traffic king will be Lord Ashfield whose salary is to be £21,500 a year.

The capital involved in the concern totals £120,000,000.—Reuter.

INFORMATION WANTED

OWNER OF WATCH AND CHAIN

"The newspapers might possibly bring the owner to light," remarked Mr. Wynne-Jones in Court this morning when a Chinese charged with the unlawful possession of a gold watch and chain, stated he picked them up in Shanghai Street, Mongkok district, District Sergeant Fowles stated the Police interviewed the defendant's wife yesterday and she stated her husband did not own a gold watch and chain. The case was remanded to Monday.

DEADLY GASES FROM CLOTHES

RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY DEATHS

AMAZING THEORY

New York. Deadly gases from burning clothes are believed to be the real cause of a large percentage of the 10,000 deaths which occur every year through fire in the United States.

A report of the American Chemical Society found that burning of woollen materials gives off such dangerous gases as carbon monoxide, hydrogen sulfide, hydrocyanic acid and ammonia.

Gases produced by burning various common materials in an asbestos-lined room were studied at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn.

"Persons attempting to escape from fires," says the report of the scientists, "have probably been overcome by the gases evolved from burning clothing and lost their lives by breathing these toxic gases."

"When the clothing of a person is burning, it seems almost inevitable that he should inhale the gases produced. Woollen carpets, draperies and upholstery undoubtedly add to the danger, when a fire occurs, by emitting deadly gases." The smallest amount of gas in the room where materials were burning were found to be in a layer midway between floor and ceiling, as the lighter gases rose, while heavy gases sank to the floor.—Reuter.

RUM RUNNERS IN BALTIC

SIX SHIPS FLYING BRITISH FLAG

Helsingfors. Following the report that the Finnish Minister in London had been instructed to ask permission from the British Government for the capture of a vessel described as a British rum-runner, it is now stated officially here that six rum runners flying the British flag are at present operating in the Baltic.

It is also stated, however, that the crews of these vessels are practically entirely non-British and that most of them, including the captains, are Estonians.

The steamer regarding which the complaint was sent to London is stated to have been using a secret radio code between Estonia and Sweden.

Reuter was informed in Finnish circles in London that the question of reported rum-running off the Finnish coast had been the subject of discussions between Great Britain and Finland.—Reuter.

DEATH OF MR. F. H. HOLDMAN

ELEVEN YEARS IN POST OFFICE

It is with much regret that we have to record the death early this morning of Mr. Frederick Herbert Holdman, the Assistant Superintendent of Malls.

He had been lying dangerously ill for two or three days, following a hemorrhage of the brain. He was only forty-three years of age, and leaves a widow to mourn his loss.

The late Mr. Holdman had been in Hongkong Government service for a little more than eleven years. He joined the Post Office as supervisor of Malls in 1922 and was appointed Assistant Superintendent two years later.

The funeral takes place this afternoon.

His Majesty has not been advised to exercise his power of disallowance with respect to the following Ordinances:—Ordinance No. 31 of 1932.—An Ordinance to amend and consolidate the law relating to Dangerous Drugs. Ordinance No. 39 of 1932.—An Ordinance to amend and amend the law relating to Companies.

His Majesty has approved the appointment of the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson to be an Official Member of the Executive Council and an Official Member of the Legislative Council.

MAKING DEAF TO HEAR

A NEW ELECTRO INSTRUMENT

TEST A SUCCESS

New York. A new electro-mechanical instrument, which transmits sound vibrations through the ones of the head, has made it possible for a group of deaf children in a classroom of the New York School for the Deaf to hear clearly their first radio programme.

Some of the children are nearly totally deaf because of defective ear drums. The instrument sidetracked the defective drums and carried the vibrations direct to sound-sensitive parts of the brain, it was explained. The system operates on the principle of "bone conduction" of sound.

HEARD CLEARLY.

When the instrument was turned on, lip reading and sign language were forgotten. Bright, eager anticipation on the faces changed instantly to expressions of surprise and wonder. It was explained that many were experiencing for the first time something akin to the sensations of hearing that the normal person takes for granted. The children heard clearly, even though many spoken words escaped their understanding. They responded easily to the music. Smiles lighted their faces and crude vocal expressions escaped their lips as they evidently recognized words taught them in the classes through other means.

Over each child's head was a small metal band that clamped an electric vibrator, no larger than a pocket knife, against the mastoid or the cheek bone. Wires linked the vibrators to an amplifier and then to the microphone into which the performers sang and spoke.

Each child, by means of a small button on the individual vibrator, regulated the intensity of the vibrations to suit his needs. Sometimes the device worked best when placed against the forehead. The children made their own adjustments to get the "maximum sound effect."—Reuter.

CAMOUFLAGED SMUGGLERS

PINE TREES USED FOR DECEPTION

Cologne. Smugglers camouflaged as pine trees are the latest problem confronting the already harassed customs officers in the western frontier districts.

Some officers the other day surprised a party of smugglers on the borders of a pine forest at Roetgen, near Aix-La-Chapelle. They gave chase, but in an instant the smugglers had one and all disappeared.

It was only after the customs officers had carefully combed the forest for a long time that they found their quarry had become merged in the pine trees. Their backs and packs of smuggled goods were carefully camouflaged with pine bark and branches. All they had to do when chased was to make for the nearest pine trees and stand against them.

The captured smugglers were relieved of their camouflaged, 10,000 cigarettes and 50 lbs. of coffee.—Reuter.

CIDER PUTS OUT FIRE

WHEN WATER SUPPLY FAILS

Vienna. Two hundred gallons of cider were used by firemen to put out a fire at an inn at Trotsch, Upper Austria, when the water supply failed.

The outbuildings had been destroyed, causing damage of about £500 and the roof of the inn was blazing when the firemen thought of the cider. Barrel after barrel was broken open and the contents were thrown on the flames and finally the inn was saved.—Reuter.

DAIREN CONFERENCE REPORT DENIED

Peking, July 7. The Chinese authorities have issued a further denial of the reports current in the country that the Chinese delegates to the Dairen Conference have signed an agreement with the Japanese delegates.

An official communique issued last night says that the purpose of sending delegates to Dairen was to arrange for resumption of the railway traffic on the Peking-Mukden Railway and to dispose of the Chinese renegades in the Luan-tung areas. The delegates have no authority to sign any sort of agreement.

Continuing, the official statement says: "Up-to-now arrangements for the resumption of traffic on the Railway have been agreed upon. Regarding the disposal of the renegade troops, the Chinese and Japanese delegates have probably agreed upon the disbandment of two-thirds of the soldiers and on the incorporation of the rest into the Peace Preservation Corps for the Luan-tung Area."—Reuter.

FREAK LAWS

RED TAIL LIGHTS FOR PEDESTRIANS!

Chicago, Illinois. While State legislatures this year generally were occupied with serious emergency measures dealing with the economic situation, some whimsical bills were introduced.

Minnesota legalized the use of artificial light in appearing fish. If all the bills introduced had been enacted into law—

WORSHIPPING WIMBLEDON'S HERO

JACK
CRAWFORD
WINS SINGLES
TITLEMASTERLY PLAY
AGAINST VINESJAPANESE WIN
AGAINCLOSING HOURS OF TOURNEY

An immense crowd, following for over two hours with breathless interest and unceasing excitement, one of the most thrilling and spectacular games of tennis ever seen, and breaking out into cheering which lasted five minutes was the enthralling scene on the Centre Court at Wimbledon yesterday, when Jack Crawford, the Australian, won the Men's Singles Championship from H. Ellsworth Vines, the tall Californian.

By this victory, Crawford realised a promise which he had given from the moment he began the present European tour, and it will go down in posterity as one of the finest achievements of Wimbledon, for the success was gained at the expense of a world champion playing at the height of his form. The scores in Crawford's favour were:

4-6, 11-9, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

The match was really decided in the second set. Vines had won the first and needed only the second virtually to make himself safe for the retention of the title.

It was in the second set that Crawford rose to a brilliance in stroke play and tactics which nonplussed the American. He mastered Vines's service and returned the fiercest drives with interest and greater accuracy.

He himself served without blemish and at the twentieth game broke through the loser's cannonball service and then won the set on his own delivery.

Vines dropped the third set with no sort of a fight, but he returned in the fourth to give an amazing display of sustained brilliance.

SERVICE STRUGGLE.

The final set will go down in history. Once again it developed into a struggle for service supremacy and for the second time Crawford proved the master. Biding his time until he reached the eighth game, he broke through and to the astonishment of the crowd won Vines's service to love. Nothing had been seen like it at Wimbledon this year.

After that it was Crawford's match. He made no mistake on his own service, which was so severe and cleverly placed that Vines was continually forced into making weak returns.

Not only is this the first time Crawford has won the Wimbledon singles championship, but it is the first time since 1922 that an Australian has achieved the performance.

Gerald Patterson was the last Australian player to lift the crown and incidentally the last Briton to accomplish it.

The crowd went wild with excitement at the close of the match, states Reuter, and the cheering lasted fully three minutes.

WELL DONE NUNOI AND SATOH.

Another convincing display of modern doubles tennis was given by Nunoi and Satoh against Von Cramm and Nourney in the semi-final of the Men's Doubles.

The Japanese won at

and qualified to meet Borotra and Brugnon, the Frenchmen, in the final this afternoon.

The Germans found themselves up against a combination which improved rapidly as the game progressed. Both Nunoi and Satoh indulged in piercing drives which became more and more effective as the exchanges lengthened, and finally they had subdued their opponents to a game of pure, but ineffective defence.

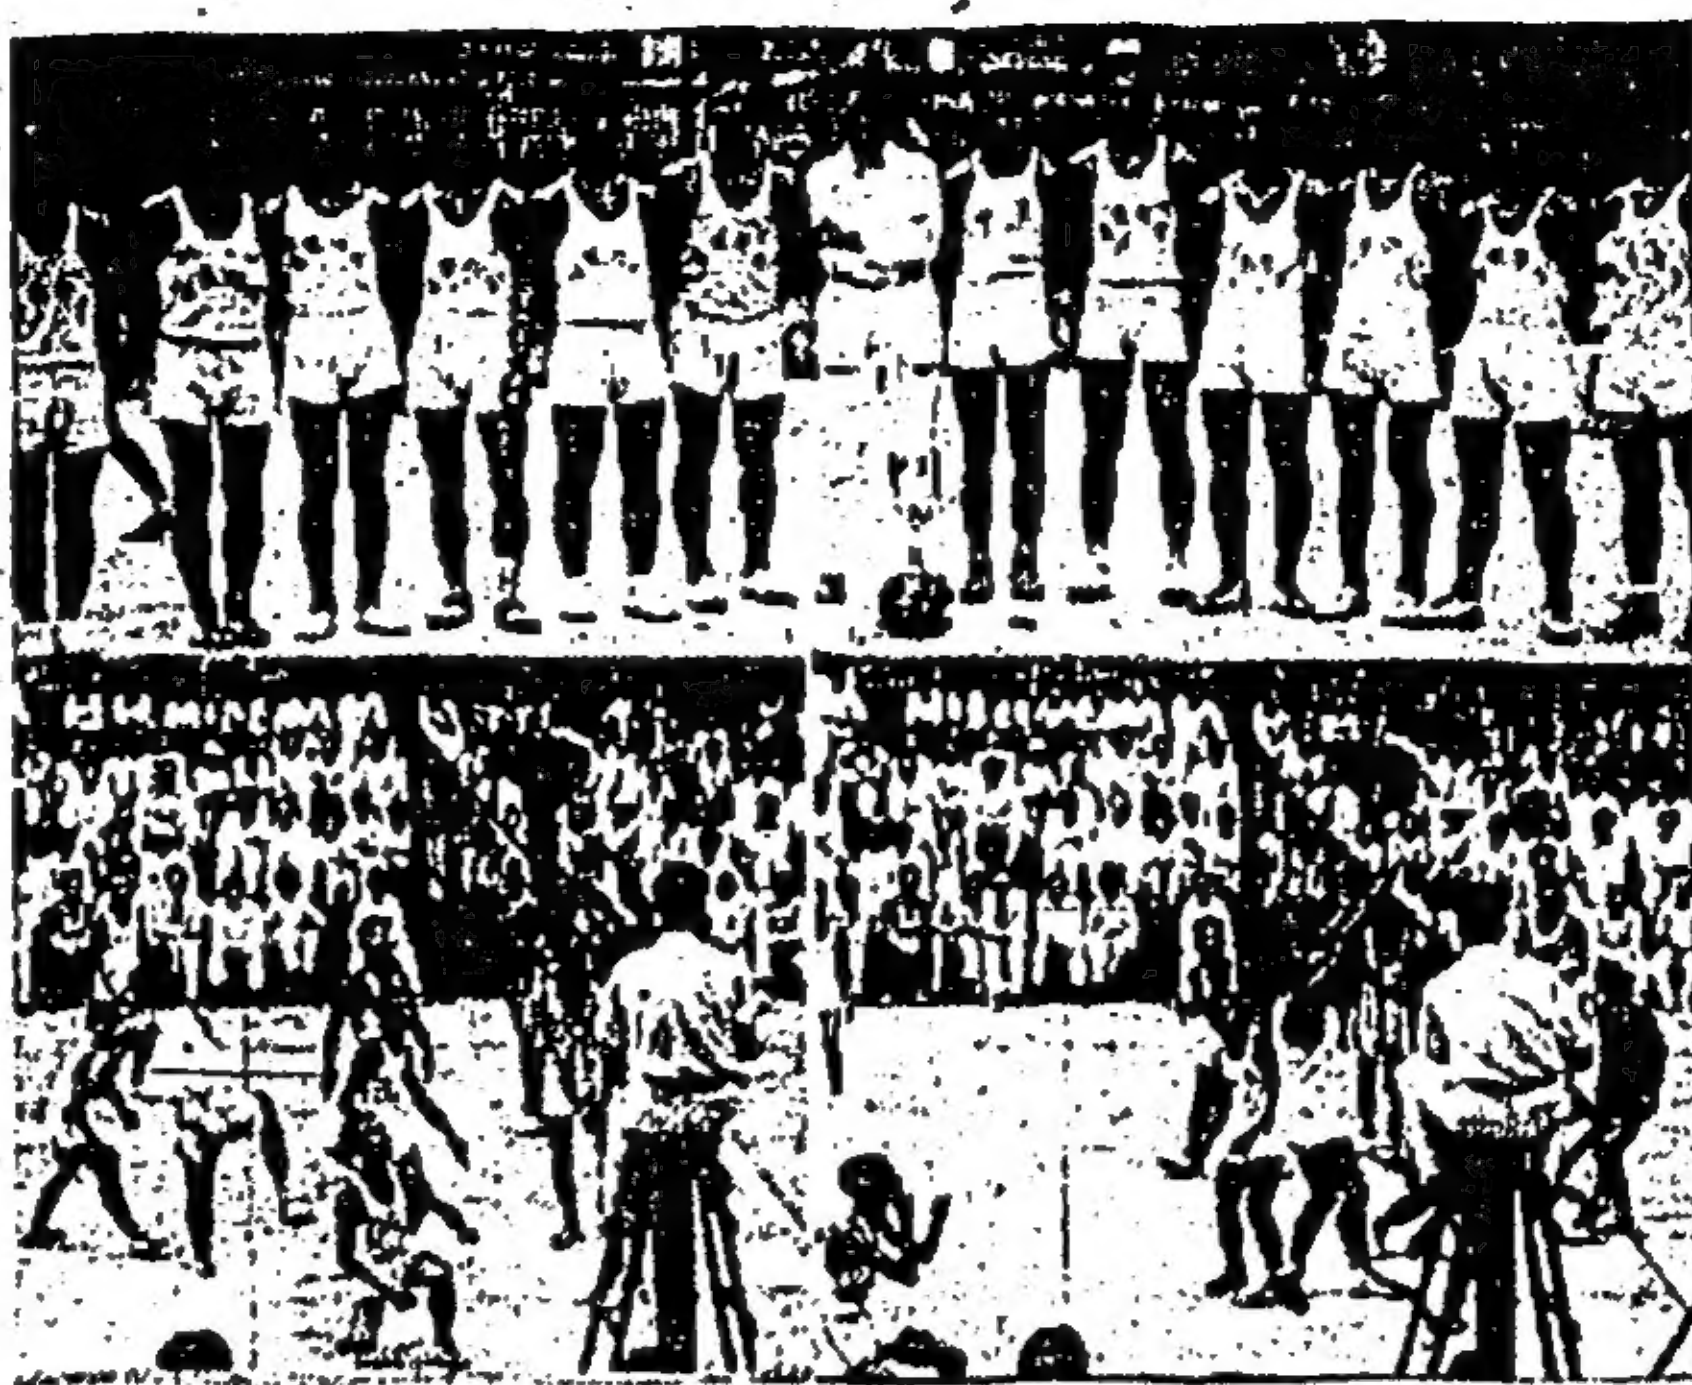

LADIES SHINE.

Ladies shone in the Mixed Doubles matches which event reached the final stage.

In the quarter-final, N. G. Farquharson and Miss Mary Heeley overcame H. Miki and Miss Dorothy Round by 10-8, 6-3, and in one of the semi-finals, also played in the early part of the afternoon, Von Cramm and Fraulien Krahwinkel beat O. H. Kingsley and Mrs. L. A. Godfrey 6-2, 8-0.

In both matches the women dominated the court. Their serving was fine and they scored most of the points with deep drives.

The men were very uncertain and at their weakest overhead. Miki too often failed to make full use of his service and Farquharson was frequently caught out of position.

The Government Vernacular College, the champion team of the Inter-College Volley Ball League, met the Rest of the League this week at the Chinese Y.M.C.A., and won 3-1. Pictures show (above) the teams, and below, two incidents during the game. (Photo: Mee Cheung).

British Athletic
ChampionshipTWO WINS FOR BRITAIN

London, July 7. Two of Great Britain's representatives scored wins at the British Athletic Championships at the White City to-day.

In the two miles walk, Cooper of Britain, holder of the championship, retained the title covering the distance in 13 minutes 39 4-5 seconds. Holden of Britain carried off the six miles championship, winning in 30 minutes 32 1-5 seconds.

The Marathon went to Robertson of Scotland. Robertson was the holder and his time was two hours, 43 minutes 12 1-5 seconds.

An overseas competitor won the Hop-Step-and-Jump. Blankers of Holland covering a distance of 48 yards 2 1-2 feet.—Reuter.

Later, Farquharson and Miss Heeley qualified to meet the German couple by defeating Jean Borotra and Miss Betty Nuthall in a keen struggle 8-0, 11-9.

This was a meritorious effort, and again most of the credit had to be given to Miss Heeley. Miss Mathies and Miss Ryan won their semi-final against Mrs. Pittman and Miss Joan Ridley only after a three set match of 27 games.

The Franco-American pair played beautiful tennis and deservedly won in spite of the English players' excellent second set recovery.

The day's scores as cabled by Reuter were:

MEN'S SINGLES.

Final

J. B. Crawford (Australia) beat H. Ellsworth Vines (America) 4-6, 11-9, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

AchievementsVERITY SKITTLES OUT
THE WEST INDIES

London, July 7.

Sussex lost more valuable ground in the county cricket championship to-day when they could only take first innings points from Lancashire.

Essex too conceded eight points, whilst Glamorgan gave Nottingham a real fright leading by 180 on the first knock.

The results were:

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Warwick (269 and 105-6) beat Hants (260 and 112 by four wickets).

Glamorgan (346) beat Nottingham (166 and 384-8) on first innings. Sussex (421) beat Lancs (263 and 277-5) on first innings.

Derby (143 and 195-7) beat Essex (394) on first innings.

Northants (364 and 151-8 dec.) beat Somerset (200 and 69-2) on first innings.

OTHER MATCHES.

Yorks (240 and 248) beat W. Indies (115 and 173) by 200 runs. Cambridge (372 and 167-4) beat Leveson-Gower's XI (256 and 280) by four wickets.

On the whole the cricket was dull. Rain fell on most grounds and held up play sufficiently long to prevent definite results. On the other hand several splendid individual performances with the bat and ball were recorded.

BOWLING.

Verity (Yorks) v W. Indies	7 for 29
and	7 for 54
Mayer (Warwick) v Hampshire	5 for 70
and	5 for 35

Once again the West Indies showed that they feared and disliked slow bowling. Verity, the Yorkshire spin bowler, just toyed with them. His figures for the match were 14 FOR 83.

In the first innings he took 7 for 29 and in the second 7 for 54. Yorkshire did not reach the 250 mark in either visit to the wicket, but they won by 200 runs!

TYLDESLEY'S BATTING.

Only Tyldesley faced the Sussex attack with any degree of confidence, and but for him Lancashire would have been in a bad way.

When, in Lancashire's first reply to the Sussex total of 421, the Northerners' wickets were rapidly falling, Tyldesley remained at the crease and scored 94 out of 263. In the follow-up, he made Lancashire safe from defeat by hitting up 105.

Essex made a gallant effort to pass the Derby score of 443, and got within 49 of it. Tall scoring also featured Somerset's game with Northants, three centuries being hit up.

Cambridge scored a clever win against Leveson-Gower's team, Winlaw coming to the rescue with a dazzling first innings century and another knock of 60 not out in the second innings. Human helped himself to another three figure innings.

Y. M. SWIMMING
GALA

Members of the Y.M.C.A., are reminded that the usual monthly swimming gala is being held to-night in the "Y" Bath at 9.15.

A varied programme has been arranged including 50 yards hand-cap events for ladies and gentlemen, a Hong team race, a Ladies' v Gents' team race, diving, displaying, water polo and novelty races.

At the conclusion dancing will take place in the West Lounge.

SUZANNE ON SHORTS

NEVER HEARD OF ROUGED KNEES

London, June 19.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the famous French tennis player, arrived in London on Saturday by air. Despite a rough crossing from Paris, Suzanne was her charming and vivacious self.

"I love tennis as much as ever, and I am here to give lessons and demonstrations.

"I was most interested in the suggestion that I may play Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody again. I should like to meet her again. She is charming and a great player.

"I do not know what would happen if such a match materialised. I have not seen her play for a long time. It is seven years since my last appearance in amateur tournament tennis.

A Professional

"Of course, Mrs. Wills-Moody is an amateur and I am a professional. There might be difficulties. I certainly should not apply for reinstatement as an amateur.

"I have seen Miss Peggy Scriven play. She is very clever and, as she is young she has a great chance. Whether she will beat Mrs. Wills-Moody or not I cannot say, but she will put up a very good fight. She gave a magnificent show in Paris.

"About tennis fashions? I still wear my bandeau. It is as necessary to me as my racket.

"What do I think of shorts for women? They are very comfortable in hot weather, at a holiday resort. I think the most comfortable dress one can wear is shorts and a brassiere. But in a big tournament they are hardly proper.

"As for rouged knees, I have never heard of such a thing."

PENALTY OF THRIFT

HOSPITAL SISTER TO LOSE GRATUITY

Because she had saved sufficient to purchase an annuity of £70,
Miss Mary A. Burton, formerly ward sister at the Eastern Hospital, is to lose a special gratuity recommended for payment by the London County Council.

Miss Burton retired after 32 years' service with the old Metropolitan Asylums Board, and it was recommended by the L.C.C. General Purposes Committee that she should receive a special gratuity of £82 10s.

This, in view of her savings,
was half the usual gratuity.

The Minister of Health, however, stated that he was unable to sanction the proposal, and the Committee assume that this action was taken because of her savings.

Both this Committee and the Central Public Health Committee thought it inequitable that Miss Burton should lose her gratuity through making provision for her retirement.

They urged the Minister to reconsider his decision, but he has intimated that he cannot alter it.

The matter will be reported to the Council to-morrow.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

A murder committed in full view of 70,000 persons ... and not one of them knows how or by whom! That amazing situation forms the story of "70,000 Witnesses," showing for the last time to-day at the Queen's Theatre with Phillips Holmes, Dorothy Jordan, Charlie Ruggles and Johnny Mack Brown in the leading roles.

The majority of the action takes place in the stadium where a gigantic crowd has gathered. Rumours that Brown, ace halfback of one team, will be "smeared" to guarantee victory for his opponents suddenly come true, when, after breaking away from the line and dashing practically to a touchdown, he suddenly staggers, stumbles, and falls.

Then David Landau, in the role of a noted detective, and Holmes, Brown's team mate and buddy, get together in an effort to find out who was responsible for the murder, and why. Their success leads to a startling climax.

"Lady With a Past"

Sparkling entertainment with a champagne-like quality of buoyancy is afforded in "Lady With a Past," Constance Bennett's new contribution to the screen. The picture opened yesterday at the Central Theatre.

The golden-haired star steps forth with a new characterization refreshingly different from those she has been given in her recent films, and it is in one which she is entirely at home. Her role is that of a young New York society girl who blossoms influence of Paris and expert masculine tutelage.

The screen play, by Horace Jackson based upon Harriet Henry's new novel, deals with a girl who is too shy and serious to attract men. In Paris however, she falls under the guidance of a charming chameleon, becomes the toast of the ball rooms and cafes, attracts a lot of leas, and through a turn of circumstances, finds herself a "Lady With a Past". Then, her old acquaintances in New York begin to sit up and take notice.

Ben Lyon has the part of the gigolo.

"Too Busy To Work"

Will Rogers, frequently described as the best known personality in America, comes to the King's Theatre next Sunday in the role of a tramp. The picture is "Too Busy To Work," has most recent Fox production. It tells the story of a penniless vagabond, who searches the country far and wide in the hope of finding his wife and daughter and the man who stole them while he was fighting for his country in the World War.

Eventually, he stumbles upon his daughter and the "other man" and learns that his wife has long since been dead. The action he takes, is perhaps, not what the ordinary man would do under similar circumstances. In the greater number of his screen portrayals, Rogers has enacted the role of a father. In real life he is the ideal type of parent, bestowing every comfort on his three children, Will, Jr., Mary and Jimmy, the youngest of the trio—everything except a telephone.

Rogers refuses to have a telephone in his home, though he has every other requirement of a modern residence.

The celebrated wit and humorist is as afraid of a telephone as he is of evening clothes. There is a 'phone in his dressing room, a pretentious bungalow at the studio, but he seldom answers its ring.

"Too Busy To Work," prepared for the screen by Philip Klein and Barry Connors, is based on Ben Ames Williams' widely read story, "Judith." The cast supporting Rogers includes Marlan Nixon, who enacts the leading feminine role; Dick Powell, a recent sensation in "Blessed Event"; Frederick Burton, Douglas Cosgrove, Constantine Romanoff and Jack O'Hara.

"The Painted Woman"

With its breath-taking and dramatic story painted against the colorful background of Singapore and the South Seas, "The Painted Woman," features Spencer Tracy and Peggy Shannon in the principal roles. It is showing to-day at the King's Theatre.

Plenty of action and suspense have been woven into this Fox Films offering along with its frankly human romance between a man and a woman, neither of whom has been better than necessary.

"Hell Below"

Heralded as the most exciting marine picture ever filmed during the era of the talkies, "Hell Below," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's gigantic panorama of submarine activities, will have its first local showing at the Queen's Theatre on Thursday next following its triumphant run at the Astor Theatre in New York.

With the aid of recently perfected underwater photography, the picture unfolds an amazing series of episodes with battles between submarines and destroyers, undersea escapes from depth bombs, air raids and the blowing up of a fortress by means of a submarine loaded with TNT, furnishing the background for an intensely human story of a woman torn between loyalty to her husband and love for a naval lieutenant.

The picture, based on Commander Edward Ellsberg's book, "Pigboats," was filmed with the cooperation of the United States Navy at the submarine base at Pearl Harbour, Hawaii, and was directed by Jack Conway. Its stellar cast is headed by Robert Montgomery as the naval lieutenant who is precipitated into a series of harrowing adventures at the bottom of the sea as well as on its surface, and includes Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy "Shmooze" Durante, Eugene Pallette and Robert Young. The gripping incident of submarine action in "Hell Below" is counterbalanced by the romance between Montgomery and Miss Evans, and the story is given its lighter moments in the amusing scenes in which the popular Jimmy Durante takes the centre of the stage.

"She Done Him Wrong."

Miss West, noted Broadway actress and writer, who made her film debut in a character role in "Night After Night," is starred in her second movie, "She Done Him Wrong," which she herself wrote, and which comes to the Queen's Theatre to-morrow. Cary Grant, Noah Beery, Gilbert Roland, David Landau and Owen Moore head the large cast which supports her.

In lush, hearty fashion, the story swings along, and a startling, dramatic climax is the final result. All the colour of the Bowery has been compressed into the picture—its strange inhabitants, its gaudy resorts, its gaudy pleasures. Miss West sings three songs in her best Bowery manner during the course of the film.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Never give up on a hand. Don't become careless because it looks as though you cannot possibly make your contract.

There may be a squeeze play or an end play which will develop that needed trick.

The following is another of the interesting hands which was played in the Ohio State Individual Contract Tournament.

The Bidding

Many players would open the South hand. However, using the constructive one over one system,

♠ J-7-4	♥ A-9-6	♦ K-7	♣ Q-10-8-7-5
♠ 9-6-2	♥ Q-7-4-3	♦ A-3	♣ J-9-6-3
♠ NORTH	♥ EAST	♦ SOUTH	♣ WEST
♠ A-8-3	♥ K-5-2	♦ Q-J-10-8-C	♣ A-2

I do not like to open with this type of hand. It is not necessary to fear that the hand will be passed out.

If partner cannot make a weak third hand bid with you holding this type of hand, it is just as well back in the deck. If you pass, North will open the bidding with one club. You can then make a constructive one over one force of one diamond. North will sign off with no trump.

You can now show that you had practically an original bid by bidding two no trump in the face of your partner's sign-off bid. It takes a rather optimistic North player to go to three no trump. However, it can be made.

The Play

East will open the king of spades which North will allow to hold. East has to start, and his best lead is the jack of hearts. North will win with the ace and lead the king of diamonds.

West will probably hold off one round, but North will continue with the seven of diamonds and West will be forced to win with the ace. West will return the nine of spades and the trick is won in dummy with the ace. Declarer now cashes the three good diamonds in dummy. West will drop a heart, a spade and a club. Declarer will discard two clubs and a heart. East follows with two diamonds and then discards a heart.

If East had thrown away a spade and kept a heart, the contract could be defeated. But now, if the declarer has watched the drop of the cards, he should lead the king of hearts from dummy, which pulls East's last heart, and now the eight of spades is played. East wins with the queen and then cashes his good ten of spades. The heart is discarded from dummy and a club by the declarer.

This leaves dummy with the ace and one club, and the declarer with the queen and ten of clubs. East has nothing but the king and one club, and in this manner the declarer wins the last two tricks.

PEACE PARLEY

NATIONS WILL MEET
AT SHANGHAI

Shanghai, July 7.

According to advices received here, at the request of Madame Sun Yat-sen the World's anti-Imperialist Federation at Brussels has decided to hold an International anti-War Conference at Shanghai, late in July, which will be attended by representatives from more than thirty countries.

It was announced in London yesterday that Lord Marley would leave for China to-day to preside at such a Conference.

Originally it was intended that the Conference would include only Pacific nations.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, a Labour M.P., is a member of the British delegation. Others will come from Canada, the United States and Japan.—Router.

JACK DIAMOND, S WIDOW SHOT

GRIM DISCOVERY IN BROOKLYN—

New York, July 1.
The widow of the gangster, Jack Diamond, was found shot to death in a Brooklyn apartment on Friday night it was announced to-day.
The doctor who examined the body said that she had been dead since Wednesday.
Jack Diamond himself was shot to death in a hotel in Albany about a year and a half ago.
Mrs. Diamond had lived alone in an apartment under the name of Alice Kenny since last August.
Her name had been seldom linked with that of her husband and he had generally been seen with Kiki Roberts, a show girl.
There are so far no clues to the murder of Mrs. Diamond. Three coffee cups were found on the kitchenette table, which indicates that two persons were present at the time of the shooting.—Reuter.

BRITISH EMPIRE MOTOR TROPHY

KAYE DON BEATEN BY POLISH DRIVER

London, July 1.
At Brooklands, to-day, a race for the British Empire Trophy, over a distance of 125 miles, resulted:—
1. Count Czaykowski (Poland)
2. Kaye Don
3. Oliver Bertram.
Count Czaykowski and Kaye Don were both driving super-charged Bugattis, while Bertram was in a Delage. The winner's time was 123.58 miles an hour and Kaye Don's 121.47.
The Count's time was the fastest ever done in a long track race of this description.—Reuter.

EAST LANCs FOR HONGKONG

ARRIVE FROM NORTH
IN NOVEMBER

A DISTINGUISHED HISTORY

As notified by the War Office, the provisional programme for the trooping season of 1933-34 contemplates the arrival of the 2nd Battalion Worcester Regiment and drafts for the Far East in Shanghai on October 27, to replace the 2nd Battalion East Lancashire Regiment who are to be drafted from Shanghai with details to Hongkong. The Lancashires will arrive here on November 9.

On November 14 the 2nd Battalion Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders who were formerly stationed in Hongkong sail from Shanghai for India aboard the s.s. Neoralia. The ship will also carry details from the Far East to the United Kingdom and intermediate stations.

The Lancashires came to the Far East last year and have been stationed in Shanghai. The Commanding Officer is Lt. Col. A. C. Marsh.

During the Great War the regiment was represented by 17 battalions and distinguished itself on many fields of battle, being awarded honours in commemoration of their services in the Retreat from Mons, at Alsace (1914), Neuve Chapelle, Ypres (1915, 1917 and 1918), the Somme (1916, 1918), Arras (1917, 1918), Doiran (1917, 1918), Helles, and Kut al Amara (1917).

Numerous honours were awarded the regiment prior to 1914 and include the following:—Gibraltar, 1704-5; Cape of Good Hope, 1800; Corunna; Java; Badajoz; Salamanca; Vittoria; St. Sebastian;

MAN'S HAND SEVERED

CAUGHT IN TRAMCAR
GEAR BOX

A distressing accident occurred on a tram-car in Happy Valley yesterday, as a result of which a greaser lost his right hand.

The car was in Wongneichong Road when it was found necessary to grease the gear box. A coolie, named Chan Hoi-kee, was instructed to carry out the job. It is understood that the operation confined to putting the grease into the box, was of a simple character, but the man appears to have put his arm too far into the box. The arm became jammed in-between the gear, and was severed below the wrist before the unfortunate man could be extricated.

DAUGHTER OF LADY ASTOR TO WED

ANNOUNCEMENT OF HER ENGAGEMENT

London, July 1.
Official announcement was made to-day of the engagement between Phyllis, only daughter of Viscount and Viscountess Astor, and Lord Willoughby de Eresby, elder son of the Earl and Countess of Lancaster. The marriage will take place in the near future.

The bridegroom's mother is the former Eloise Broese, daughter of the late Mr. W. L. Broese of New York.—Reuter.
